You can program house heat level

<sup>83</sup>
A new thermostat can be set to change the temperature of your house automatically six times a day, seven days a week.

For example, Magic-Stat could keep the house 70 degrees when you wake up, 50 degrees while you're at work, 68 degrees when you get home, 72 degrees after dinner and 62 degrees while you sleep. You can adjust it for different schedules on different days.

Magic-Stat does not just turn the heat off and on at designated times. It senses changes in temperature and computes how long it will take to get a room to the temperature you want by the time you want.

You can install Magic-Stat in minutes. The manufacturer offers to buy back the unit in one year if you haven't regained its cost in energy savings.

Magic-Stat retails for $79.95 and is available in hardware stores and from the manufacturer, Quad 6 Inc., 3135 South State St., Suite 101, Ann Arbor, Mich. 48104.
